OPPORTUNITY

Question: Is opportunity self-made or predestined by our personal karma? Is it possible to increase our opportunity through surrender?

Sri Chinmoy: Yes, opportunity can be self-made and opportunity can be predestined, but self-made opportunity does not have abiding life in it, whereas when we get opportunity from the Grace of God, this opportunity has an everlasting life and an ever-illuminating capacity.

Yes, it is quite possible to increase one's opportunity through surrender-power.

Question: When the aspirant decides to follow a spiritual path, is this human opportunity, divine opportunity, or both?

Sri Chinmoy: When the aspirant decides to follow a spiritual path, it is not a human opportunity; it is a divine opportunity. More than that, it is a supreme opportunity. Human opportunity once lost is lost forever. Divine opportunity comes and goes and goes and comes. The supreme opportunity has the magnetic pull to lift the seeker to the highest plane of consciousness.

Question: Is every opportunity a good opportunity where spirituality is concerned?

Sri Chinmoy: If it is a matter of aspiration and dedication in a seeker's life, then every opportunity is undoubtedly a good opportunity.

Question: How can I increase my awareness of the opportunities presented to me?

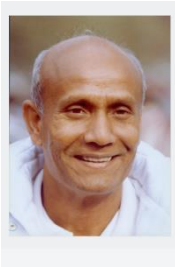

Sri Chinmoy: You can increase your awareness of the opportunities presented to you, provided you feel that each opportunity is an achievement of a new dawn, a new realisation and a new perfection.

Question: Why do we fail to take advantage of opportunities?

Sri Chinmoy: We fail to take advantage of opportunities because of our self-indulgence and self-importance, our self-rejection and self-dejection.

Question: How can I best prepare myself for daily opportunities to please the Supreme?

Sri Chinmoy: You can prepare yourself for daily opportunities to please the Supreme by convincing your mind that you are a beautiful rose that is meant to be placed at the Feet of the Supreme for His own satisfaction and for His own manifestation.
